Israel's First Lady at Government House

Ofira Navon, wife of the President of Israel is greeted by their Excellencies the Governor-General and Mrs. Schreyer on her recent visit to Ottawa. In addition to the Chief of Protocol, the welcoming party at the airport included the Ambassador of Israel and Mrs. Anug; Joseph and Evelyn Lieff, representing the Jewish Community; Tami Berezin, representing Canadian Hadassah-WIZO who presented flowers to the distinguished visitor and Betty Polowin, President of Ottawa Hadassah-WIZO.

Comet will focus on World Jewry March 1

Theodore Comet, Director of International Affairs and Leadership Development for the Council of Jewish Federations, will be the guest speaker at the forthcoming open meeting of the "Forum 81" Community Relations series.

The meeting, co-sponsored by the Community Relations Committee of the Jewish Community Council and the Beth Shalom Congregation, will take place at the Beth Shalom Synagogue on Sunday, March 1 at 10:00 a.m. as part of the Congregation's monthly "Family Brunch."

Mr. Comet will speak on "A Global Perspective of the Jewish Condition Today." The talk will focus on a behind-the-scenes report on Jewish communities behind the Iron Curtain, in Arab lands, Latin America and Western Europe. A dynamic speaker, Mr. Comet intends to involve his audience in his presentation.

Mr. Comet has been active in Jewish communal affairs since the end of World War II when he served in France with the JDC program to rehabilitate war orphans. He is a native of Cleveland and a graduate of Yeshiva University.

In his work at Council, Mr. Comet is involved in planning to meet the needs of Israel and of Jewish communities throughout the world. He has served as Secretary of the Commission on Immigration and Absorption at the annual Jewish Agency Assembly. He has led missions of American leaders to Jewish communities in Europe and Latin America, as well as to the USSR. He has long been active on behalf of the Jews in the Soviet Union, and was one of the first co-ordinators of the American Jewish Conference on Soviet Jewry.

The March 1 Forum is open to the entire community and everyone is welcome.

"Super Sunday" will launch U.J.A. Apr. 5

Lorry Greenberg, General Chairman of the United Jewish Appeal has announced that Chick and Rose Taylor will co-chair a new and imaginative program called "Super Sunday" which will kick off the campaign on Sunday, April 5 and propel it towards the $2,500,000. needed in 1981 to keep pace with inflation, maintain Jewish community services in Ottawa and pay our share of the cost of social welfare programs in Israel and national agency budgets in Canada.

Originating in Washington, D.C. in 1979, Super Sunday caught on so well that it was turned into a national event in the United States. This year, some seventy cities took part in the program on January 18. Others are scheduled for later this winter and spring. Ottawa is the first Canadian community to follow suit.

Super Sunday is a mammoth telephone blitz during which one-third to one-half of all prospects in a community are reached in a ten to twelve hour period. Outstanding results have been recorded everywhere the program has been tried with many new contributors added to the rolls for the first time.

Although telephone solicitation is not new to U.J.A. fund-raising, Super Sunday has three distinct advantages over the old method used. First and foremost, it generates excitement in the community through the use of many volunteers and launches the campaign with a bang. Secondly, it covers a great many cards quickly, accelerating a process which otherwise drags on for weeks and even months. And finally, it enables the campaign to shepherd its human resources by assigning people to tasks suited to their time and talents.

The Taylors have already brought their special brand of enthusiasm and commitment to bear on the program. They began by going to Washington with Hy Hochberg on January 18 to see Super Sunday in action. It was a real eye-opener and both came home convinced it would be a winner in Ottawa as well.

As turned on as they are about the possibilities of Super Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor are realists who know they have a big job ahead of them and only eight weeks in which to get it done. Last week, they had a gathering at their home to brief heads of organizations and to begin recruiting their executive and solicitors. The response was overwhelmingly favourable.

Chick Taylor

Super Sunday headquarters will be located in the Main Auditorium of the Jewish Community Centre where a battery of fifty telephones will be installed. Working in five, two-hour shifts from ten in the morning to nine in the evening, some 350 volunteer workers will cover over 3,000 of the 6,000 names on the United Jewish Appeal's master list in an effort to reach a goal of $250,000.

They will have been trained to get maximum results before they get on the phone. An intensive publicity campaign will prepare householders for the calls.

Since having enough volunteers is the key to success, Chick and Rose are appealing to "everyone in the community to come and lend a hand on April 5. Men, women, university and high school students are needed for phoning and administrative duties of various kinds. Those who want to take part are asked to complete and mail the Sign-Up Form on Page 5 of this Bulletin or call Super Sunday headquarters at 232-7306.

Super Sunday took its name from the National Football League playoff series. The Taylors say that in the Super Bowl, one team wins, the other loses. On Super Sunday, everyone will be a winner.

Speaking to a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Jewish Community Council on January 28, Chick Taylor stated that he confidently expects that "on April 5, more people will call and raise more money in a single day for Israel, for local and national needs and for Jews all over the world than ever before in this way. This outpouring of moral and material support will strengthen Jewish life at home and abroad."

Spurred on by the confidence and infectious enthusiasm of the Taylors, Super Sunday is bound to succeed.

Early start lauded by General Chairman

The appointment of Dr. Shier Berman as Chairman of the Public Service Division of the 1981 United Jewish Appeal of Ottawa has been announced by General Chairman Lorry Greenberg.

Dr. Berman is serving his second year as Chairman of the Division. Carl Rosen, his Associate Chairman, is also in his second year. Their Campaign Cabinet has expanded to over thirty members and organization is well under way.

Mr. Greenberg has commended the Public Service Division for starting early and instituting a specialized canvasser training program which trains canvassers at luncheon meetings in offices across Ottawa. A Special Names Committee has also been formed.

Vaad Report

by Sol B. Shinder
President, Ottawa Vaad Ha'Ir
Jewish Community Council

Where are we going in the 80's?

I was recently invited to one of the "Neighborhood Gatherings" which are being sponsored by the Women's Division of U.J.A. in conjunction with our Women's Federation, as part of an ongoing educational program for members of our community. My topic for discussion was "Where the Community is Going in the 80's." I would like to share with you some of the views I expressed that evening, with a view to stimulating further discussions.

We have a highly-successful school system offering Hebrew education at the primary school level to roughly two-thirds of the eligible school-age children. At the same time that our schools have been increasing their enrolment, our adult population is increasing its life span. More of our citizens are living longer and the proportion of our population which reaches the senior citizen category will continue to increase in the 80's.

While one segment of the population is living longer, the extended family is breaking down. The incidence of families with children removed from Ottawa is increasing. The trend of children looking after their aged parents is declining. All of these factors will lead our community into developing programs for both the well-aged as well as for the infirm-aged, programs which must be administered with dignity and a "Yiddish Tam". We owe it to our elders that they be permitted to live out their lives in dignity in a Jewish environment.

The problem of educating our youngsters is one of cost. The parents of young school-age children cannot, as a general rule, afford to pay the full cost of providing Hebrew education in a full-time Day School.

The size of our community has increased to some ten thousand and we are beginning to feel the effects of a diverse community which has its share of family breakdowns, juvenile delinquency, single parents and the full spectrum of social welfare problems. All of these factors directed our Council to establish a Social Service Agency. The demands to expand this service into a full-scale Family Service are bound to increase.

In the past few years, we have seen a revitalization of the Jewish Community Centre. The J.C.C. Board of Directors has paid a great deal of attention to providing programming to attract the participation of all members of the community both at the Centre at 151 Chapel Street as well as with an outreach program. These activities of the Centre must be encouraged.

The J.C.C. is also the landlord for our communal building — a building which is now some thirty years old. The cost of maintaining the building is mounting. The mechanical systems are in need of renovation; the roofs have had to be replaced; and the cost of operating the building will continue to escalate. The building is more than the Jewish Community — it houses our communal offices and provides meeting rooms for many of the community organizations. It is at 151 Chapel Street that many of the community-wide activities take place. The allocations to the Jewish Community Centre must therefore be kept in perspective to segregate the housekeeping functions from its programming activities.

In recent years we have also seen an increase in our allocation to the needs of teens, university students and the singles in our community. The Jewish Students Union has been revitalized with the addition of a full-time co-ordinator to work with the 800 and more Jewish university students in the city. The cost effectiveness of the J.S.U. cannot be denied.

Attention is also being paid to the increasing number of singles in our community. We must maintain an atmosphere where young people in our community can meet and mingle with other Jewish young people in a Jewish atmosphere. It may be the only way for us to combat the problems of intermarriage.

All of these activities are necessary and all cost money — money which is becoming more difficult to obtain. It seems that when the economy is in decline, the needs of our community are on the increase.

Ethel Taylor

Women all set for the 1981 U.J.A.

Ethel Taylor, Chairman of the Women's Division of the 1981 United Jewish Appeal, reports that at the first meeting of her Cabinet on January 13, a number of exciting plans were made for the coming Campaign.

Chief among these was the creation of two new categories in the Women's Division: Snowbirds, under the co-chairmanship of Dorothy Nadolny and Phyllis Sternthal, and Golden Age, co-chaired by Gert Liberman and Esther Baker. Plans are also under way for the expansion and development of the Business and Professional Category, which was organized last year.

The Women's Division has already begun its activities, based on their 1981 Calendar of Events. These include Canvasser Training on March 10, participation in Super Sunday, an exciting Family Fashion Show and a special reception for Newcomers. The two latter functions will be built on the highly successful Fashion Show and Newcomers' Luncheon held last year.

Building on their excellent results of the 1980 campaign, in which the Women's Division exceeded their goal of $170,000 by $15,000, the women hope to further increase their objective, and raise the highest amount ever in the forthcoming Campaign.

Disarmament demo Sunday

There will be a demonstration for nuclear disarmament on Parliament Hill, in front of the Peace Tower, on Sunday, February 8, at 2 p.m., sponsored by Operation Dismantle. The public is urged to attend.

Birth

Jan and Allan Pressman are proud to announce the birth of a son Jody Daniel, 8 lbs., 10 oz., January 17 at the Ottawa Civic Hospital.

Proud grandparents are Goldie Pressman of Miami Beach, and Jack and Millie Dawson of Saskatoon.

LORRY'S CORNER

On January 25, our Young People's Division held their Third Annual Champagne Brunch at the Jewish Community Centre. They were the first to get started and if the results they achieved can be duplicated in all our divisions, 1981 is sure to be a banner year for the United Jewish Appeal.

While the dollars themselves are important, what is even more important is the number of new donations received and the average increase of 94%.

I had the pleasure of addressing the group and looking around at the 125 or so university students and working young adults sitting in the Main Auditorium, I thought to myself that the future of the Jewish community is in good hands. These beautiful young people had come of their own free will to give money and be counted in as responsible Jews in their own right. I wish some of our adults would follow their example.

I want to congratulate Chairman Mark Macy, his Vice-Chairmen Ian Sherman, Joany Greenberg, Jody Streen, Arnie Cowan, Rhonda Fligel, Ian Zunder and Peter Greenberg and the seventeen other young people who sit on the executive. A special word of praise to Jody Streen who spoke so movingly and eloquently to her peers. We can be proud of all of them.

Organization of the Business and Professional Divisions is moving along nicely. Associate General Chairman Norman Potechin has responsibility for three of those Divisions. He has lined up Manny Lightstone and Barry Lithwick to Co-Chair Construction and Real Estate; Larry Szpirglas and Rabbi Basil Herring to Co-Chair Communal Services; and William Newman and Bernard Rosenblatt to Co-Chair Automotive and Services.

Associate General Chairman Stephen Victor has six Divisions under his jurisdiction. His Chairmen are Herbert Pearl for Legal; Dr. Nordau Kanigsberg for Medical; Dr. Myron Cherun for Dental; Alan Freed for Accountants; Martin Gisburg for Health Sciences; Matt Ages for Financial; and Dr. Jeffrey Sidney for Academics.

Associate General Chairman Irving Rivers has supervision of the Retail, Food, Valley and Financial Institutions Divisions. Dennis Newton and Edward Saslove are Co-Chairmen of Retail. His other Chairmen are pending.

Associate General Co-Chairmen Nap Kapinsky and Ben Karp have the Metro, Capital and Challenge Divisions. So far, their Executive Committee includes Manny Agulnik, Alan Abelson, Ralph Benwick, Earl Butovsky, Gordon Froman, Al Hubenig, Sam Iscoe, Issie Kardish, Al Malomet and John O'Hayon.

Associate General Chairman Simone Goldberg has responsibility for the Young Business and Professional Division headed by William Shenkman; the Young People's Division chaired by Mark Macy; the High School Division and the Walkathon. The names of the Chairmen of the last two are to be confirmed shortly.

Associate General Chairman Irving Taylor is busy putting together his Special Names Executive. I am also pleased to report that the Women's Division and the Public Service Division under the chairmanship of Ethel Taylor and Dr. Shier Berman respectively, have their cabinets in place and have been meeting regularly for several months in preparation for the campaign.

Each of the Associate General Chairmen are setting up orientation and planning meetings with the heads of their division. The next step in the process will be the recruitment of canvassers which we have targeted for completion by February 28. Then will come worker training sessions, card distribution and ultimately, the bottom line approaches to our donors beginning with Super Sunday on April 5. All in all, a big job, but we are well-organized and on schedule and I am optimistic of the outcome.

Breathes there the gal
With mind intact
Who when hubby says "trip"
In five can't be packed?

And so, when Yours Truly got the Word — a sudden welcome invitation from her Best Guy to fly off to the sun-drenched sands of Acapulco for a glorious week of r-and-r, she took it — leaving the omniscient Hy Hochberg and his ablest assistant Rossi Rose the fun and frolic of preparing, pasting and proofing the previous Bulletin.

Not that they're new to this game. This well-oiled team can do anything. (And anyway, the fine hand of H. H. is always present in every issue of this wee community tabloid.)

Ahhh, Acapulco! Within brief hours of arriving we had shed the North American need to get it all done yesterday and adopted the "Manyana" mentality of the Mexicans. It is a wonderful way to live.

Among the many sights to be seen in and around this resort city, we were delighted to discover among the sombreros that Great Jewish Giveaway: the kippah. There they were, dotting the streets, and bobbing through hotel lobbies, (though on beachfront and poolside they were replaced by regulation tourist sunhats).

No longer are the truly faithful of our persuasion relegated solely to Miami Beach for winter sunshine. With the advent of kosher eateries in more exotic spots, much more of the world is — pardon the expression — also their oyster!

Acapulco boasts two strictly kosher restaurants: one with strings attached (wooden!) and one open to the public. It was to the latter — the Shalom — we went one evening for an excellent repast, and an eerie touch of Jewish geography at work.

Ottawa's other Engels, Dr. André and his Shelley, (no relation, but nice!) coincidentally were vacationing in Acapulco at the same time, and had asked us to join them at the Shalom for dinner.

As we were agonizing between the chopped liver or egg 'n' onion, the veal or southern fried chicken, our attention was drawn to Jerry the colourful mashgiach of the Shalom who was vociferously engaged in an animated telephone conversation. (Jerry is a "must-meet" if you go to Acapulco. A transplanted Arizonan in his late-50's, he looks far more like a retired American League baseball coach than a mashgiach!)

How we devined the identity of his conversational counterpart is still a mystery, but we were soon excitedly calling out, "Tell him all the Engels are here! Ask him to call our homes to let 'em know we are fine!"

And that's how Rabbi Irving Schreiber came to give our family our regards firsthand — from Mexico. Jewish geography — at work through the Bell System. Thanks, Rabbi!

Key-note speakers address Men's Club

The Agudath Israel Congregation Men's Club is continuing to attract well-known keynote speakers to its Sunday morning breakfast series. Recent distinguished guests have included Senator Eugene Forsey and Professor Eugene Rothman.

On February 15, the featured speaker will be David Wineberg, Ottawa Director of the Automobile Protection Association (APA). The APA is the Canadian equivalent of Ralph Nader's U.S. organization. Mr. Wineberg is also a well-known advocate in other consumer fields. His topic will be "The State of Consumerism in Canada."

Uri Savir of Israel's embassy in Ottawa, will be Guest Speaker on Sunday, February 22, when he will provide an update on current Middle East developments.

The Ottawa Jewish community is invited to attend these breakfast meetings. Breakfast starts at approximately 10:00 a.m., immediately following prayers.

Assistant Rabbi is sought

Congregation Beth Shalom has announced it will be interviewing candidates for the position of Assistant Rabbi, with special responsibility for the continued development of Beth Shalom West.

The decision was made in response to the growth of the satellite in Ottawa's western suburbs. According to Dr. Basil Herring, Rabbi of Beth Shalom, it is clear that there is need for a traditional synagogue in that locale. In addition there is a willingness to join, and build an institution that can be responsive to the needs and expectations of local residents.

As explained by Rabbi Herring, the new Assistant Rabbi will work with him, sharing duties downtown and in the West End.

In the meantime, Beth Shalom services attract up to 120 worshippers; the first issue of Beth Shalom West's new Journal (featuring news analysis, personal viewpoints on a variety of issues, a column for the kosher consumer, a kiddies corner, and social profiles, among others) will appear shortly; regular living room discussion groups attract upwards of 30 people; and new members continue to join the ranks.

For further information regarding upcoming events and services, interested persons may call the synagogue office at 232-3501, or Julian Lewin at 828-0286. Subscription to the newsletter and Journal is gratis upon request.

All classes participate in services

The Talmud Torah Afternoon School held its annual Talmud Torah Shabbat at Agudath Israel Congregation on Saturday, January 24. The entire school from Grade 2 up participated in the take over of the Saturday morning service.

Several students from Grade 8 and Ext. 1 began with Psuhei D'Zimra. They were followed by the Grade 7 class with Shacharit.

Grades 4 and 5 then took the Torah out of the Ark and prepared for the Torah Reading. The Parsha was read by students of Grade 8 and Ext. 1, and also by past graduates. Grades 4 and 5 then returned the Torah to the Ark.

Grades 3 and 6 led the Congregation in Musaf.

Students of Grade 2 brought the service to a close with Ayn Keloheinu and Adon Olam. Grade 8 and Ext. 1 took over the Anim Zmirot. With the recitation of Kiddush the mornings service was concluded.

Tefillah-prayer is an integral part of the curriculum of the Talmud Torah. Students not only learn the Shabbat service but the daily services and the special prayers associated with many of the holidays. By putting their Tefillah studies into active use students realize its importance and relevance.

Book Review

Piece Work
by Mona Adilman,
Borealis Press,
Ottawa, 75 pages

And I stand in silence
while my spirit chants a psalm of remembrance through a feast of tears.

Reviewed by Sharon Drache

This book of poetry is a tripartite offering. "Love-play," "So what's New?" and "Free Enterprise," the titles, are indicative of the poetry which adorns this collection.

Adilman's love poetry is best described by Irving Layton who writes a laudatory introduction to the volume. "In these poems craft and imagination work wonderfully well together to create lyrics of enduring worth...They remind us that sex is not only a problem but a pleasure; indeed, also mystery and rapture with sudden plummetings into coldness and hate to be marvelled at."

Layton also praises Adilman for her "big Jewish heart" and in some of her poems like "Aunt Annie" recently published in Moment magazine (July-August 1980) and "Yiskor," she comes closest to dealing with religious ties to her tradition:

Here are some excerpts:

From "Aunt Annie"
She was an overflowing woman an earth-mother, a plethora of compassion and vitality
a lexicon of life with the aromatic sweetness and sparkle of full-bodied Passover wine.

From "Yiskor"
Full throated, the cantor sings mints images like shining fruits aromatic and sweet glossed with sunlight...

But Adilman is strongest in her poems seeking social justice. In Piece Work, the title poem, her big heart, not necessarily Jewish, rails straight from the gut against the power of the exploiter.

An excerpt:
The knot of women
heat-shrivelled,
hunched over their machines
-piece work puppets
manipulating bits
of fabric, the whir
and hum of technology
stinging the air
like a giant wasp.

And then in juxtaposition:
In the showroom
airconditioners articulate
a comforting chill.
Buyers
finger the goods
and eye the models.
The designer is all smiles,
The boss has order forms
at the ready.

In "Free Enterprise"
Adilman has some strong political poems which ring with nagging half truths, calling to conscience both public and private mistakes made in the name of progress. Also in this section are several successful poems on environmental issues.

Mona Adilman resides in Montreal. She has two previously published collections of poetry, Beat of Wings and Cult of Concrete.

And for those who believe creative talent is in the genes, it is noteworthy that Adilman's Aunt Annie was a cousin of Scholem Aleichem.

Opinion

Jewish Lifestyles

by Ian Sadinsky

The late seventies and now the early eighties have witnessed an amazing "return to the fold" of young Jews, many formerly alienated from the Jewish community at large. This phenomenon, principally in major North American urban centres, has created a new group of Jews, well-educated, family-oriented, community-minded, yet whose connection with Judaism is based on vague recollections from early childhood or from deliberate study of University-level comparative theology courses or equivalents. This class of Jew longs to make the connections, between philosophy and the Cheder, between humanism and latkes, between history and Kovod.

This new class is well-intentioned: they love Jews and they love Judaism. They have been to the other side and they want back,.....or almost. Most have not felt the horrors of the holocaust; few are older than the State of Israel; even fewer have personally felt the sting of overt anti-semitism. And yet, they have hidden from the atrocities of the past that befell their parents and their parents' contemporaries; instead, they have chosen to protect their future.

The signs of renewed life and dedication are all around us. New satellite synagogues, fledgling schools, a community newspaper, thriving service clubs, social and athletic associations, major cultural programs, trust and endowment funds, youth leadership groups, and on and on. Many Jews have come "out of the closet" to carry placards, to send letters to newspapers, to sit on committees, to daven, to teach, to drive senior citizens — even to give to charity. Many of the old values and skills have been dusted off and restored.

Yet, it is not a complete return to the past. These Jews are not afraid to question; to seek a second opinion; to back down. They are not afraid to laugh or play baseball with a Rabbi or forget to go to Florida or Mexico or whatever "hot spot" is the rage. Last year's yomtov outfit may be good enough for this year...maybe. A doctor, a lawyer, a pharmacist...an engineer, a psychologist, a social worker...personnel managers, physicists, graphic designers — they are all Jews. And some still sell fruit, and fish, and shoes, and shmatas, and jewellery. And why not?

And the best part is that it's for real. The Jew's love of life, his thirst for knowledge, his support for the poor and the suffering — they all have these qualities. They are a true indicator of the Jewish pulse. And the patient is alive and well.

Here in Ottawa, this type of Jew is well represented. He or she is to be found in a melange of places; in the Young Leadership division of the UJA; in front of the Soviet Embassy petitioning for freedom for Soviet Jews; at a Chavurah living room discussion group; listening intently to Isaac Bashevis Singer with his tales of Yiddish and the Shetl; or by choosing to be involved in such synagogue groups as Beth Shalom West, that emphasize and have in common an innovative, informal, and forward looking approach to Jewish life.

This is the Jew of tomorrow — at least as he appears today. As our community goes into the eighties, we are full of promise and expectations, learning and living together, assuming the challenges of yet another generation, its trials and tribulations, its challenges and its Joys. Le-Chayim!

Service for people who live alone

If you live alone and are troubled by the thought that no-one is aware of your day-to-day safety, consider a new service now offered by the Jewish Social Services of Ottawa-Carleton.

The program is called Telecheck and, as a subscriber, you call the Jewish Social Services at your convenience between nine and eleven thirty each weekday morning. Having checked in, your safety has been noted. However, should you fail to call in, the Jewish Social Services Agency staff will immediately investigate and get help to you should you need it.

This program is designed for the active person of any age who lives alone. Having many friends does not ensure that one of them will take note if you aren't around for several days, particularly if you are a busy person.

There are no eligibility requirements for this service, for which there is an annual twenty-five dollar fee. If you have any questions about it, please call Marlene Cherun at 238-6351.

Dr. Lewis Slotin will be guest speaker at the upcoming general meeting of Temple Israel Sisterhood on Tuesday, February 17 at 8:30 p.m., at 1301 Prince of Wales Drive. He will speak on Genetic Engineering: Friend or Foe?

Genetic Engineering represents the key driving force behind a technological revolution which will have an enormous impact upon the world in the coming decades.

This impact could be positive or negative depending upon society's ability to cope with all of its ramifications. There are no simple answers to successfully dealing with this area of technology, but it is imperative that society begin to prepare itself for the decisions ahead.

Dr. Slotin is presently Science Policy Advisor with the Ministry of State for Science and Technology. He spent several years in research at The National Research Council, and at the Institute for Cancer Research in Philadelphia.

Super Sunday opens Campaign in States

"Super Sunday", a volunteer telephone marathon aimed at reaching hundreds of thousands of Jewish households nationwide, opened the 1981 United Jewish Appeal campaign, in the United States on January 18 by raising more than $14.5 million in a single day.

More than 17,500 volunteers dialed friends and neighbors in over 69 communities to make the event what Super Sunday National Chairman Jerome J. Dick called "the most successful mass appeal in peacetime in our history."

Preliminary figures show 128,000 donors contributed $14,569,461 and with a number of communities still to report, the total returns are expected to exceed $17.5 million.

UJA National Chairman Herschel Blumberg said, "The numbers are extremely impressive when one considers that pledges were received from non-givers and people whose prior gifts were $500 or less."

In communities across the nation volunteers were crowded ten deep around the phones. They were joined by members of the House and Senate, governors, mayors, sports and show business personalities and national and community Jewish leaders in calling well over an estimated one million Jewish households.

"This incredible celebration of sharing is eloquent testimony to the unity and commitment of the American Jewish community," Mr. Dick said. "Super Sunday has brought all American Jews closer together and has demonstrated clearly our deep concern for our people in Israel, in our communities and throughout the world."

UJA National Chairman Blumberg joined Mr. Dick to keep in close touch with communities across the nation from Super Sunday headquarters at the United Jewish Appeal Federation of Greater Washington, D.C., where the first local Super Sunday program was implemented successfully two years ago under Dick's leadership.

SAVE A LIFE WITH C.P.R.

It's our guess that you've never heard of C.P.R. (Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation), but if someone's heart stops, his brain begins to die. Minutes count. Prompt application of mouth-to-mouth breathing and chest compression keeps blood flowing to the brain. C.P.R. can restore life or sustain it until complete cardiocare can be started.

Thousands of victims of sudden heart arrest have been saved by prompt use of C.P.R. Much is being done these days to prevent premature death, to save hearts too good to die.

25/35 Company News Update

By Allen Markowitz
On January 2, 25/35 Company celebrated its first birthday. On January 8, approximately 20 members of the Company gathered to reflect on the results of our first year. With the certain knowledge that "we must be doing something right," this group began planning for Year II.

As it is in every organization, we too are still working out some of the mandatory administrative details. Watch for your copy of this year's first newsletter (if no problems exist it may even have arrived before this article reaches print) with an outline of the concerns which arose from this meeting. (If, by some remote chance you did not receive this missive, call me at 232-9555 and I shall remedy the situation).

ITEM: 25/35 Members Bowled Over at Hampton Lanes

The first event of 1981 was held on January 10 when more than 30 stalwart souls braved the chill to spend an evening rolling a ball down the alley at five very stubborn pins. While expertise varied enthusiasm did not, and the evening was enjoyed by all. Congratulations to Peter Wolfe who, by topping 300, was the high bowler of the evening.

ITEM: Sunday February 8 X-Country Ski excursion. Don't miss it! By now, you've got all the details. If not, call Lori at 237-3284 or Mark at 833-3046.

ITEM: Sunday, February 22 we skate on the Canal. Come join us. Skaters are to meet at 1:00 p.m. at 188 Lisgar Street, Apt. No. 18. At 1:30, the group will set out for an afternoon (?) of fun and frolic.

ITEM: For those of you whose lives don't revolve around recreational activities, don't PANIC!!! We know you are out there and it is our intent to find something which will satisfy the widest range of interests possible. We can't do that without hearing from you. Call us.

Chai BGG

By Vicky Gosewich
Hi there! Once again I'm writing to say how well Chai BGG is doing. We've been very active in the past few months and our activities have been very successful. I'd like to give you a taste of what we do.

In the past couple of months we've had a volleyball tournament, a wake-a-thon, a social, coffee house, skating party, program on Jewish values, and we even raised some money through babysitting.

If you are interested in finding out what else we've done or what we're going to do call me at 722-0867.

Boys 14-15

Remember the opening meeting of the new B.B.Y.O. Boys Chapter will be held on February 8, at 7:30 p.m. at the Jewish Community Centre.

Plan Purim festivities on March 15

On March 15, the Jewish Community Centre, in conjunction with the National Capital Council of Jewish Youth will be sponsoring the third annual community-wide Purim celebration.

The family oriented carnival and festivities will take place at the Jewish Community Centre.

More details will be forthcoming shortly, but make sure you reserve the date. It promises to be an exciting event.

CALLING ALL SONGSTERS BETWEEN THE AGES OF 7 AND 14 YEARS!

The all new JEWISH COMMUNITY YOUTH SONG GROUP will soon begin rehearsing for its debut performance at our community celebration of Yom Ha'Atzmaut on Wednesday, May 6. We need you!

To add your name to a growing list, call 232-7306.

On the Wings of Eagles

by Rabbi Dr. Basil Herring congregation Beth Shalom

Free at last! After 444 days, the American hostages have spread their wings in freedom. We can echo the words of Jethro in this morning's parashah, merely substituting Iran for Egypt, and Khomeini for Pharaoh, when he said to the Israelites... Blessed be the Lord who has delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of Pharaoh;

Exodus 18:10.

The episode of the Iranian hostages brought home the reality of the decline, even if temporary, of the power of the US; it highlighted the fragility of the Persian Gulf and its oil exports; it demonstrated the tyranny of religious fanaticism; and it proved the unique importance of Israel as a dependable ally in contrast with Khomeini's closest ally, Yasser Arafat.

For us in Canada, there is particular joy, in that our Embassy was able to give asylum and then freedom to some of those Americans. Baruch Hashem!

But now that the crisis has ended there is reason for self-evaluation, on the part of Canada. For there are problems in our posture vis-a-vis the U.S. In spite of the weakness of the West and of Soviet expansionism our leaders are concerned to disassociate this country from a closer relationship with the only country that can withstand Russia. Our Prime Minister is more concerned with his notion of a North-South dialogue and to allow Canada a more assertive role, away from the shadow of our neighboring giant.

Yet this is not the time to rebuff overtures of friendship from the United States. With his inauguration this week, President Reagan has made repeated attempts to draw closer to our country. I perceive a genuine desire to overcome differences that may have separated us in the past. I see no reason to detect an incipient imperialism — and every reason to sense an opportunity for mutual enrichment. We need to join together, to pool our resources and energies — for there will be many difficult battles and sacrifices in the years ahead.

To return to Jethro, there is, an instructive comparison. For while our tradition applauded Jethro — there is also a certain ambivalence towards him. For having spent some time with the Israelites in the desert, Moses invited him to join them on their way to Israel. But Jethro refused, saying I will not go; but I will depart to my own land, and to my kindred.

Numbers 10:30.

Why did he not choose to join with their cause? The answer, according to Rabbeinu Yosef Bechor Shor, is because Jethro feared the wars and sacrifices that would be part of the inheritance of the land. Rather than face the protracted struggle Jethro preferred to stay at home, tending to his own interests.

Hence Jethro was seen as a friend who was able to share the joys and tribulations of the Israelites. But on the other hand, Jethro was unwilling to join his cause to that of the Israelites, unwilling to make the sacrifices necessary. And so he remained outside the mainstream of history, as he withdrew to his Midianite patrimony.

There is a lesson here for Canada — and for us as Jews. Like Jethro, Canada continues to rejoice and thank God at the deliverance of those Americans from their latter-day Pharaoh. But now that the United States, under its new President, has invited Canada to join together to share the burdens of freedom, it is time that we respond magnanimously. Instead of adopting a posture of aloofness, or of pre-occupation with other issues at home or abroad, let us and our leaders recognize for once where our interests lie.

And for us as Jews, the Soviets are the mortal enemies of the Jewish people in our time. Hence to the extent that we can join forces, in the struggle to withstand their activities will we strengthen the cause of Jews and Judaism. Let us therefore, dedicate ourselves to strengthening our ties to the United States, and to the vibrant Jewish communities that lie within her borders.

God Himself, describing the redemption from Egypt, says Ye have seen what I did unto the Egyptians, How I bore you on eagles' wings.

Exodus 19:4.

This week we have seen the American eagle spread its wings, enjoying the taste of freedom and dignity, so lacking for these many days. Let us pray that that eagle will soar to new heights, transcending the errors and the failures of the past, attaining a vision of new horizons, and scaling ever higher peaks, as the protector of smaller nations. And let us as Canadians and as Jews join together in that great enterprise.

Sherri Torontow

Ottawa Girl army woman

Her name is Sherri, she was born in Ottawa, Canada. She is the secretary of her division, the base where basic training takes place. The only connection Sherri had to Israel was her stepfather, and it was he that recommended Israel to Sherri. She finished her education in SDE BOKER, the school for new immigrants. (Sherri is a graduate of Hillel Academy).

She returned to Ottawa after her graduation for a short visit. During her stay here she felt there was something missing. She decided to return to Israel. Sherri joined Kibbutz KTURA in the Negev. From there she enlisted in the army on her own with another fifteen new immigrants. They passed the course for basic training and after that Sherri was recommended for the Corporal course. According to her officer she made small history when she became the first immigrant to be a corporal.

As time passed Sherri taught basic training herself. In the long run she has become Sargeant and was awarded best officer of her entire base. Now she is a member of Kibbutz Palmachin where she has become more active with born Israelis.

Because of her experience, Sherri feels that any new immigrant should serve in the army. "I don't know if they call it Zionism but I know I have to work very hard to prove my feelings for Israel."

She also said, "I don't think it would hurt friends in Canada to serve for the Israeli army. My parents had mixed feelings. My mother was afraid because she didn't know what the army was all about, my father encouraged me to advance. My mother soon relaxed and I think she is very happy about my success in the army. She encouraged me to go to Israel in the first place."

Her oldest brother, Steven, is joining the army this month.

The officers in Sherri's outfit stated, "When somebody in the division is depressed, it is only natural that they go to Sherri."

Sherri is very happy with her Israeli family in the Israeli army.

This is a direct translation from an Israeli military newspaper in December. It was sent to her family who proudly translated it for the Bulletin.

Sherri is the daughter of Ruth & Uri Tal, granddaughter of Ethel & Percy Adelman.

Shul youth challenge

By Mark Honigman

In answer to a challenge issued by the Youth of Congregation Machzikei Hadas to the Youth of Congregation Beth Shalom, a floor hockey game took place on January 13 at Congregation Machzikei Hadas. The teams consisted of boys age 13 and under.

Coach for Machzikei Hadas was Mark Honigman and opposing coaches were Ian Cantor and Mike Landau.

The game was well-played by both teams. In the end, Machzikei Hadas managed to outscore Beth Shalom 13 to 8.

High scorers for Machzikei Hadas were Jason Tanner and Jason Bercovitch, with 5 goals and 3 assists each. Seth Feller chalked up 3 goals and 1 assist. Tammy Torontow and Shmuel Bulka each had 2 assists, and Shawn Goldberg and Edwin Lazear 1 assist apiece.

A good game was played by Adam Tanner, Mark Spiro, Isaac Levinson and Mordecai Levinson. Eric Zunder played an outstanding game in nets for the winners.

High scorer for Beth Shalom was Adrian Caplan. Gary Mirsky played a very good game in nets. And fighting off the challengers were brothers Maxwell and Gregory Baylin, Aaron and Bram Slipacoff, David and Jonathan Baker.

Special thanks to Ralph Torontow for his organization and assistance, Brian Gencher for photography, and Steve Cohen for refereeing.

Machzikei Hadas would like to issue a challenge to any Youth Group wishing a game. To accept, contact me at 731-3828.

Jerusalem Institute

Devastating mental health problems confront the people of Israel on a daily basis: unrelenting dread of terrorist attacks — insecurity stemming from astronomical inflation — scars of the Holocaust. These make the Jerusalem Mental Health Center, a Hebrew University-Hadassah Medical School affiliate, an ideal setting for a mental health institution of national prominence.

The Nathan S. Kline Institute for Psychiatric Research, the new research division of the Jerusalem Mental Health Center in Israel, will bear the name of Dr. Nathan S. Kline, pioneer and world leader in the field of psychopharmacology. The announcement was made by Guy P. Wyser-Pratte, Chairman of the Founders Committee for the Institute and Senior Vice President of Bache & Company. The Institute will be dedicated at the Congress of International Psychopharmacologists in Jerusalem in August 1982.

Dr. Kline, winner of 2 Albert Lasker Clinical Research Awards, is responsible, in great part, for the revolution in the treatment of the mentally ill during the past 20 years. His innovative work introduced a new class of tranquilizers and pinpointed the Conference tackles volunteer problems

More than seventy volunteers from over twenty Ottawa organizations participated in the Women's Community Conference, Sunday, January 25, at the Jewish Community Centre, from 10:00 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The conference was sponsored by the Women's Federation of the Jewish Community Council.

The topic of the Conference was "Keeping Volunteerism Alive", an issue that appears to be of urgent concern today to every organization that is heavily dependent on volunteer help in carrying through its activities. The morning session consisted of a panel discussion on the topic "Volunteerism and the Working Woman."

Panelists were Maureen O'Neil, Co-ordinator, Status of Women Canada; Sharon Gray, Lawyer, Political Activist and Past President of National Council of Jewish Women; and Esther Kwavnick, consultant to the National Welfare Grants Programme, vice-president, Ottawa Hadassah-WIZO. The focus of discussion was the working volunteer and how to keep her involved and active.

The featured Luncheon Speaker was Freda Paltiel, Senior Adviser on Status of Women and Social Policy Development, National Vice-President of O.R.T. Her topic was "Volunteerism in a Democracy."

The fact that the key participants were top level professionals, as well as volunteers made their contribution particularly effective.

During the afternoon session, four workshops dealt with a number of aspects of volunteerism: The Administrative Volunteer, "Selling" Volunteerism, Fund Raising, and the Service Volunteer. The workshops were conducted by Myra Aronson, Lana Coviensky, Deanna Silverman, Myrna Potechin. They later presented recommendations from their workshops to the Conference.

Lisa Cogan, Chairman of the Women's Federation of the Jewish Community Council was Conference Chairman. Simone Goldberg, National President, United Israel of Canada Inc. moderated the event.

The following organizations were represented: B'nai B'rith Women, Hadassah Wizo, Mizrahi Women, National Council of Jewish Women, Newcomer's Reception Committee, O.R.T., Pioneer Women-Na'amat, Agudath Israel Sisterhood, Beth Shalom Sisterhood, Machzikei Hadas Sisterhood, Temple Israel Sisterhood, Young Israel Sisterhood, Arthritis Society, Canadian Cancer Society, Ottawa Carleton Lung Association, Heart Fund, Elizabeth Fry Society, I.O.D.E., Kidney Foundation, Red Cross, Consumer's Association of Canada, National Council of Women.

A precis of the entire proceedings will be sent to all participants.

Adults for Lively Leisure group

By Marlene E. Cherun MSW

The Adults for Lively Leisure Group continues to meet regularly in a socially and intellectually stimulating atmosphere. Over an informal lunch, the members challenge the guest speakers and each other, and generally enjoying the "hamish" atmosphere. The membership consists of couples and singles who are nearing retirement age or who are newly retired and have leisure time in which to develop new interests and new friendships or renew old ones.

A.L.L. meets every second Thursday at the Agudath Israel Synagogue at 12:30 p.m. Everyone is welcome and no reservations are necessary. Bring your friends. There is a $1.50 charge for lunch. If you have any questions or wish to be put on the A.L.L. mailing list, please call me at 238-6351.

Upcoming speakers:
February 5: Dr. Joseph Berljawsky — musicologist.

February 19: National Council of Jewish Women, Playreading Group Psychologist to lead a discussion after the play.

March 5: Lawrence Greenspon L.L.D. on "Cults"
March 19: Harvey Lithwick: "Canada's Economy" — economist.

Adults for Lively Leisure is a Family Life Education Program sponsored by the Jewish Social Services Agency of Ottawa-Carleton in conjunction with the Jewish Community Centre's Programming Department.

Establish Memorial Fund for Torontows

The Officers and Directors of the Ottawa Jewish Community Endowment and Bequest Foundation welcome the establishment of the Moses, Chenya and Henry Torontow Memorial Fund, by their families. The Torontows were one of Ottawa's pioneer families.

Moses came to Canada with his parents, one of ten children and settled in Ottawa at the turn of the century. He went into the fruit business, worked at it all his life. In 1917, he married Chenya Witen. They had five children of which Eddie, Ralph, Leah and Jean Naemark survive.

Moses was a member of Adath Jeshurun Synagogue and later Beth Shalom. He was a pious, reserved and gentle person who was loved by his family and friends. He passed away in 1960. Two brothers, Joe and Harry and one sister, Ann Dover survive.

Chenya was a religious, kind and concerned woman who came to Ottawa in 1913. Dedicated to her husband and family, she was also involved in Hadassah, Mizrahi and Pioneer Women. She passed away in 1952.

Henry Torontow, who was the son of Moses and Chenya died in 1976. He was born and grew up in Ottawa where he attended York St. Public School and Ottawa High School. In the Second World War, he enlisted in the Governor General's Horse Guards and served in the Tank Corps. On demobilization, he entered government service.

He was a Charter Member of Confederation Lodge of B'nai B'rith, which later amalgamated with Ottawa Lodge and from which he received several awards of merit. His greatest involvement and dedication was to youth activities. He was involved with the Jewish Boy Scout Troop from 1957 to 1971 and was honoured for distinguished and meritorious service as Director of Scouting for the Jewish Community Centre.

Always concerned about others, many will remember Henry for his good deeds. He is survived by his wife Bea and sons Jerry and Allan.

The Moses, Chenya and Henry Torontow Memorial Fund is a living Memorial to three fine people who enhanced Jewish life in Ottawa. The capital of the Fund will be invested in perpetuity and it is the wish of the family that the income be used each year for Jewish Youth purposes.

The Fund is open-ended and family and friends may add to it at any time.

Max Kaplan (left) is shown making a gift of a Yiddish minute book to Hugo Levendel, Chairman of the History and Archives Committee of the Jewish Community Council of Ottawa.

Historical Society gets Yiddish minute book

"If only I had known..." those are some of the most distressing words an archives chairman can hear because they are invariably followed by, "... but I just threw everything away." And into the garbage went part of our history.

Occasionally, though, we get lucky! Through a student who was researching Jewish organizational life we learned of Mr. Max Kaplan, who for years was Recording Secretary for several local organizations.

Many of the organizations conducted their business in Yiddish, and Mr. Kaplan wrote them that way. A beautifully recorded Yiddish minute book tells part of the history of the Histadrut League of the 1950's.

The committee is constantly on the alert to gather material for the Ottawa Jewish archives that might otherwise be lost or destroyed. If you know of any material that should be in the archives, notify us through Shirley Berman at 232-7306.
